COMMITTEE OF TEN'S WORK.

Earnest Efforts to Raise Money for the Technical Institute.

The committee of ten business men which has assured the canvassers for the technical institute fund that it will undertake to raise $20,000 toward the purchase of the Arsenal grounds is perfecting its plans of work and may issue an appeal to the public next Monday. All suggestions and contributions to the fund, through the committee, should be sent to Postoffice Box 473. The committee is anxious that people should understand the importance of small contributions in the task in hand. If many small subscriptions are not received the whole project is likely to fail.

Dr. S. C. Dickey has returned from Winona Lake and is again active in the task of securing contributions to the fund. Dr. Dickey is convinced that there is an opportunity in this city for a big technical school of the kind that is proposed, and he believes that there are hundreds of young men in Indianapolis that are anxious to enter a school where they might be taught a trade and at the same time be given an opportunity to earn enough to assist largely in paying their expenses while in school. The success of the Winona Agricultural and Technical Institute has proved that, Dr. Dickey says. His work in canvassing

MYSTERIOUS ASSAULTS.

Two Men Report Injuries, but Say They Were Not Robbed.

Nathan Lewis came from Frankfort to attend the State fair. Last night, near the corner of Pearl street and Capitol avenue, President Roosevelt at Anderson, Neff says | he was waylaid and severely beaten. What the object of the assault was Lewis was unable to explain, as he did not lose his money nor his watch. He lost his knife, however. He said he had been rooming since vesterday morning at a boarding house at the corner of Capitol avenue and South street. He claims he did not display his money to any one. After the assault Lewis was taken to the City Dispensary, where Dr. Schenck sewed up the wounds on his scalp and nose. Lewis said he possessed $45, but on examination by Detectives Ward and Asch $20 more was found. Lewis said he was afraid to return to his boarding house with the money. Sixty dollars of the monjey was taken from him and placed in the safe at the police station. He was then taken to Smith's horemained last night.

Another man to report that he had been assaulted but not robbed was Frank Burke, living at 1414 West Pearl street. He said he had been assaulted on Washington street near the Statehouse. He was cut on the scalp and also on the nose. He displayed $2, which he said was all the money he had with him last night. He could not give a description of his assailants.

Senator Goodwine believes that after the Industrial School is separated from the prison the girls in the former institutions should be "graded" into different classes. He does not think the

COUNCIL FINANCE COMMITTEE REC-OMMENDS REDUCTION OF $26,960.

Cut in Estimate of Expenses Practically Balances Proposed Total Increase in Firemen's Pay.

UNANIMOUS

FOR INCREASES IN SALARIES.

The Majority Acted Apparently Without Special Information-Another Meeting May Be Held.

Five members of the Council committee on finance-three Republicans and two Democrats-have agreed to sign a majority report to the Council recommending a reduction in fourteen items of the city budget, aggregating $26,960. This "cutting" practically balances with the estimated increase in the amount of the fire force pay roll necessitated by the passage of the ordinance increasing the pay of firemen. The increases amounted to $23,350. It is probable that this report will be presented without any important modification.

The committee met last night to consider the city budget for 1903. All the members were present, and two hours were spent in discussing the items. Chairman Wynne and Mr. Rhodes were the opponents of the reductions proposed, though on some minor items they acquiesced. The other five members acted together and seemed to understand what they were doing. They were Crall, Eppert and Wysong, Republicans, a real want-that of a manual containing and Berry and Moriarity, Democrats. The all essential facts relating to the city's agreed to is as follows:

Asked. duced. ing. Blank books, stationery, $2,200 etc..... Miscellaneous expense, city officials City sanitarian, salary. 2,000 Law office, rent and ex-Law library Cutting weeds City engineer, accounts 2,500 City engineer, salaries. 27,000 22,500 Electric, gas and vapor lights 135,000 125,000 10,000 Cleaning Pogue's run... 5,000 3,000 2,000 Sweeping improved Riverside Park improvements 24,500 23,000 Fire alarm telegraph... 4,400 Electrical department, police 2,500 Total saving$26,960

OBJECTIONS WERE MADE. Mr. Wynne and Mr. Rhodes objected seriously to the taking of $5,000 from the fund to clean and sweep permanently improved streets. They also objected to the reduction of $4,500 in the engineer's salary account and the taking of $1,500 from the apropriation for permanent improvements in Riverside Park. As to the $10,000 taken out of the appropriation for public lighting they did not make serious protest, Mr. Wynne rather believing that the item of $135,000 was above the needs of this feature of public service in view of the new lighting contract that will be let next July when a large saving on the price per light is expected. They thought the smaller items that had been pared had already been closely figured and that, if the cuts were made, there would be requests for special appropriations later in the year to make up. The cutting was done without special information, so far as stated in the committee, as to the items sacrificed. The Riverside Park item has already passed through practical annihilation in the controller's hands. The item for cleaning improved streets had also been closely figured by the Board of Works and the controller and the whole budget had been trimmed by Mayor Bookwalter before he submitted it to the Council. The reduction in the salary asked for the city sanitarian is restoring it to the figures for this year. The unanimity of the five members indicated that the trimming had been prepared solely to provide the necessary means to pay the firemen's increase. However, under the charter the Council cannot increase a single item and hence the saving may not be aplied to the fire force pay roll fund until it has the recommendation of the mayor. Just how the Council is going to force the increases through is not clear. If the fourteen members repass the ordinance over the mayor's veto, should he so act, and decline to approve the city budget until it is revised to provide for the increase, the city would have to subsist on the appropriations for 1902. These are notoriously inadequate for the city's

ATTITUDE ON ORDINANCE. But there is little probability of the Council passing the ordinance over the mayor's veto. It is understood that neither President Haldeman nor Councilman Holliday, who were not present when the ordinance passed, will support it at this time, although they, like many others who oppose it, feel that the firemen, as well as others, should have increased pay when the city is able to pay it. Mr. Rhodes last night resisted the attempts to trim the estimates merely to provide for the increases. While he would not express himself last night, it is believed he will not support an attempt to pass the ordinance over the mayor's veto. This would leave the friends of the ordinance one vote short of the necessary two-thirds. Mayor Bookwalter has declined to discuss the ordinance that is now in his hands for action. It seems to be taken for granted that he will veto it, but there is enough doubt about his purpose to keep the Council guessing. There is a probability that a special meeting of the Council will be held early next week to consider the tax levy the budget. Before this meeting is held Chairman Wynne is likely to call another meeting of the committee to discuss the reductions agreed to. Mr. Wynne thinks that, if reductions are to be made, the saving should be used for the betterment of the public improvements rather than the increase of salaries. He believes that the amount saved could well be added to the fund for repairing permanently improved streets. If a larger saving could be figured out-and he does not think the one agreed to by the majority of the committee is reasonable-a reduction of the tax levy could be made. As a general proposition, he believes that the tax levy and estimates are approximately correct and should be passed Councilmen Wynne, Crall, Wysong and Rhodes have signed the committee report in favor of the tax levy of 86 cents for city purposes and 4 cents for mandatory special purposes, and this report will be made to the Council Monday night. The ordinance for a bond issue of $100,000 for the construction of boulevards was not

SEARCH FOR A CHECK.

State Officers Are Seeking a Lost County Document.

The attorney general, state auditor and state treasurer are searching records to find if D. P. Baldwin, of Logansport, paid $430.69 into the state treasury when he was attorney general, from 1880 to 1882. O. McConahy, one of his deputies, collected docket and unclaimed witness fees in Dearborn county and was paid by a check on the People's Bank of Lawrenceburg, written by Warren Tebbs, then county clerk. McConahy says he was not in need of money at the time and turned the amount in cash over to the attorney general and kept the check. Baldwin says he is sure the money was paid into the state treasury. It is said that Tebbs is willing to pay the check if it is shown that the money was received by the State. McConahy, who now lives at Monon, recently found the check which had been lost. So far nothing has been found in the records to show that the money was paid

WAS TIRED OF LIFE.

Mrs. Jennie Miller Attempted to Commit Suicide.

The services of Dr. Kennedy were required last night at 10 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Jennie Miller, 418 South East street. Mrs. Miller took a small quantity of laudanum. She had told her twelve-year old daughter, May Miller, that if "things did not get better" she would kill herself. The little girl, who is very bright, pleaded with her mother, but the latter was obdurate. Last night when Mrs. Miller came home from work she brought with her a small phial containing the poison. She talked with her daughter awhile, telling her of her father, James Miller, who refuses to support the family. At 9 o'clock Mrs. Miller kissed her little daughter and told her to get ready for bed, which she proceeded to do. Soon she heard a commotion in a rear room, and called her mother. The latter, in broken words, said that she had taken the poison. The daughter leaped from bed and called to the neighbors to summon a doctor. Dr. Kennedy succeeded in counteracting the work of the poison, and Mrs. Miller is alive but sick.

Text and Illustrations Together Make a Volume of Interest and Use to Everybody.

The Journal's Handbook of Indianapolis, which, as announced in the advertising columns, has been in course of preparation for some time, is now complete and ready for distribution. It is a volume which not only fulfills but exceeds all the promises made in its behalf, and is offered to the public with the confidence that it will meet all requirements and supply what has been ment. It has been so many years since anything in this line has been published that all such books have long been out of date; none, in fact, of such wide scope as the Journal's handbook has ever been attempted. The book contains over three hundred haif-tone illustrations which are of themselves a complete picture store of Indianapolis from the earliest times to the present. A special edition in paper covers, substantially bound, for 50 cents per copy; 8 cents extra by mail and is for sale by booksellers, newsdealers and at the Journal counting room.
